CHURCH ORGAN WITH 112 STOPS TO BE INSTALLED

AUSTIN COMPANY BUILDS IT

Remarkable Specification for First Presbyterian of Germantown, Pa., Divided Between Gallery and Chancel.

A contract awarded to the Austin Organ Company for a four-manual divided organ for the First Presbyterian church, Germantown, Pa., calls for a total of 112 stops. The instrument in the west gallery will have thirty-five stops, seven stops are registered in the string division, and the remainder of the pipes will be housed at the chancel. The Philadelphia scheme is a complete rebuild—installation of new console, wind chests and stop action of the old gallery organ, the old pipes being the only parts to remain. The chancel organ of seventy-seven stops will be entirely new.

Of late one or two American builders have placed in very large organs a giant string celeste, consisting of six or seven stops, part of them in unison, part tuned slightly flat, and part slightly sharp, the whole division operated separately if desired and making an effect not unlike the entire string choir of a big symphony. But this is the first church instrument so far as known to have this unique feature.

In the Germantown church the gallery organ of three manuals will of itself be a satisfactory and rich instrument. All the great, except the bourdon, the large diapason, and the octave, is enclosed, the enclosure including second diapason, double flute, clarabella, wald flute and trumpet. The swell of this organ has fourteen stops. The choir has seven accompanying stops at unison pitch and a flute at 4.

The main or chancel organ will have not only wide variety, but solid strength. There will be wind pressures of 5, 10, and 15 inches, the heavy reeds being on the highest pressure. The great will have large and pervading diapason tone, including one at 16-foot pitch and three diapasons at 8 feet, with octave diapason and fifteenth. Here the reeds are double trumpet, trumpet and clarion. The remaining stops are melodia, gross flöte, violoncello and harmonic flute—thirteen stops in all.

The swell division will have nineteen stops and the choir sixteen. The solo, part of which will be on fifteen inches pressure, will have contra gamba, gross gamba and gamba celeste as strings; stentorphone, flute major, piccolo, etc., and these reeds: Oboe, tuba at 15 and 8 feet, clarion, tuba magna (large scale), and harp and chimes duplexed to this manual.

The pedal organ is listed at seventeen stops.

It is notable that a church has found it desirable to install an instrument of such large capacity, evidently believing that with careful attention to voicing the organ will impress with its great richness and not overburden with mere volume of sound. Attention has been given to the matter of recitals and the planning of the instrument to take a very important place in the musical entertainment and culture of the community.

Each manual will have eight registrative pistons and there will also be a large group of general pistons controlling the entire organ. There is a suitable number of pedal pistons affecting the pedal stops as well as the entire organ. The total of mechanicals is about eighty—a large number for so large an instrument, which would bear honorable and distinguished place in the percentage list as adduced by Mr. Fry in The Diapason several months ago. The organ will have the stop cancellers, a patented device of the Austin company.

DUBOIS PASSES FOUR SCORE

Noted Composer's Eightieth Birthday Observed by Dr. Carl.

The eightieth anniversary of Theodore Dubois was observed by Dr. William C. Carl Sunday evening, April 1, when a festival performance of the composer's "Seven Last Words" was given under his direction. The occasion also served to mark the fiftieth anniversary of the oratorio. Coincident with this celebration of the event was held in Paris and the composer was feted in many ways.

Dubois has been for many years a prominent figure in the musical life of France, succeeding Saint-Saëns as organist of La Madeleine, where he remained until accepting the post as director of the Conservatoire National de Musique.

On the death of Mr. Guilman, Mr. Dubois was chosen as the honorary president of the Guilman Organ School in New York, which position he now holds, and he has honored the institution in many ways by his interest.

The celebration in New York was largely attended and the work received a splendid interpretation by the choir and soloists of the Old First Church, where it was given.

H. A. MacKinnon Moves.

Hugh A. MacKinnon, formerly assistant organist at the Church of the Transfiguration and Trinity chapel, New York City, has been engaged as choirmaster and organist of St. Luke's Episcopal church of East Hampton, L. I. He is a graduate of Dartmouth and a fellow of the American Guild of Organists. Mr. MacKinnon will make his home in East Hampton and during the summer will give a series of organ recitals.

TO BE WORLD'S GREATEST

Further Details of Austin Organ for Curtis at Philadelphia.

Further details concerning the order given by Cyrus H. K. Curtis, the Philadelphia publisher, to the Austin Organ Company for a 200-stop organ, as announced in The Diapason last month, indicate that the intention is to make this instrument, which is to be placed in the auditorium of the Curtis Publishing Company building, the greatest organ in the world. The cost of it is not determined, but it is likely to exceed $75,000.

Mr. Curtis obtained from the Austin Company the organ which he caused to be installed in the City Hall at Portland, Maine, a gift by him to the people of that city. When he decided to equip his new concert hall in Philadelphia with an organ surpassing in all respects any other in the world he sought the aid of the Austin Company in carrying out his purpose.

Philadelphia already has the largest organ in the United States. It is known as the St. Louis exposition organ, and was acquired by John Wanamaker at the close of that exposition and removed to his Philadelphia store. Recently it has been rebuilt and enlarged, and now has about 180 stops.

The specifications of the Curtis organ is not yet completed.

Great artists at popular prices continue to be the vogue in Medinah Temple. Alice Nielsen, soprano; Leopold Godowsky, pianist, and Walter Keller, organist, are to appear in this beautiful auditorium in Chicago on May 15. Reserved seats will be 75 cents and $1.50, and are on sale at Lyon & Healy's. The concert is under the direction of Dr. J. Lewis Browne.

The organ in St. Mark's Episcopal church at South Adams, Mass., has been rebuilt and the console changed, being now placed in the chancel, with the choir. George Tucker did the work. The pitch has been lowered to international, the stops have all been revoiced, the diapasons were all slotted and a vox celeste has been added to the swell. The organ is a two-manual by Johnson. Mr. Tucker has also overhauled, regulated and tuned a Hutchings three-manual organ in the Methodist church at North Adams. This organ is beautifully constructed and the voicing throughout is a splendid example of Mr. Hutchings' work. Mr. Tucker writes:

SPRECKELS ORGAN USED 332 TIMES LAST YEAR

SAN DIEGO RECITAL RECORD.

Report of Official Organist, Dr. Humphrey J. Stewart, Shows 2,559 Compositions Played—Bach Grows in Favor.

Interesting facts concerning the Spreckels outdoor organ are set forth in the second annual report to the San Diego Exposition by Dr. Humphrey J. Stewart, official organist, for the year 1916. The report shows that 332 recitals were given, at which 2,559 compositions were played, including 834 different numbers drawn from the works of 276 composers. Only eleven recitals were omitted during the year because of rain, and in the two years the organ has been in use rain prevented only eighteen performances.

"A constantly growing appreciation is manifested for the higher forms of organ music," reads the report. "This is particularly evident in the requests received for special numbers. These requests show a marked advance in musical taste compared with those received during the previous year. Even the great works of the greatest of all organ composers—Johann Sebastian Bach—are growing in favor, and requests for these elaborate compositions are frequently received.

"It is gratifying to report that the organ remains in perfect condition, and during the two years it has been in use it has not once failed to respond to the demands made upon it. This fact has been the subject of remarks on the part of visiting organists, who have been surprised to find an outdoor organ in such excellent order.

"The fame of the Spreckels outdoor organ has become national, and many instances have come within the notice of the official organist in which tourists have made a special trip to San Diego to hear the instrument. In this way the organ has become not only a delight to residents, but also a special attraction to the city."

GOES TO WILMINGTON, DEL.

George Henry Day to Be Organist and Choirmaster at St. John's.

George Henry Day has resigned as organist and choirmaster of St. John's church, Youngstown, Ohio, to accept a similar position at St. John's church, Wilmington, Del. St. John's at Wilmington is probably the largest parish in Delaware. Mr. Day is to organize a new choir of men and boys. Many improvements are to be made in the new church, including a new parish house and a new organ. The new organist will enter on his duties June 1.

Mr. Day has made a record in Youngstown during the fourteen months he has been there, developing five solo boys, one of whom has sung with success in New York and Cleveland. He organized and directed two festival choirs, has given weekly organ recitals without the repeating of a single number, and presented nine standard cantatas at which the average attendance was between 800 and 1,000.

Casavant Contract in Boston.

W. Lynnwood Farnam, the well-known Boston organist, rejoices in the fact that the organ over which he presides in Emmanuel church is to be entirely rebuilt and greatly enlarged. The contract has been awarded to Casavant Brothers of St. Hyacinthe, Quebec.

Grimm's Cantata Is Sung.

At a special Easter service in the Mount Auburn Baptist church of Cincinnati, of which C. Hugo Grimm is organist and choirmaster, Mr. Grimm's cantata, "The Great Miracle," was sung by the choir, with the assistance of a string quartet, harp, horn and organ. The rendition of the cantata was greatly admired by a large congregation.

OPENS ANTIPHONAL ORGAN

S. Lewis Elmer Dedicates Addition to Austin in Brooklyn.

S. Lewis Elmer dedicated the antiphonal organ in his church, the Memorial Presbyterian of Brooklyn, N. Y., on Palm Sunday and played two beautiful services. In the morning his prelude was the Andante from Tchaikowsky's Sixth Symphony and the postlude a Cantilene by Dubois. He also played these additional selections: Improvisation; Adoration, Gaul; Largo, "New World" Symphony, Dvorak; Chorale, Priere and Toccata, Boellmann. At the vesper service Mr. Elmer played: "Vespers," d'Evry; "Angelus," Karg-Elert; Third Sonata (Allegro Maestoso: Adagio), Guilman; Allegretto, Foote; "Eventide," Frysinger.

The organ is a gift to the church from George Mather Van Deventer in memory of his wife, Virginia Van Kleek Van Deventer. The organ is placed in the tower at the northeast corner of the church, an ideal location for obtaining antiphonal or echo effects. The organ chamber was formed by making an opening of thirty-three square feet in the tower, through thirty inches of solid masonry, and since modern swell boxes are made of concrete, the sound-proof room already in the tower formed the best kind of a swell box, while shutters placed over the opening and operated from a pedal at the console reduce the tone to the faintest when the shutters are closed. The organ was planned by Mr. Elmer, and built by the Austin Organ Company, which built the main organ in 1907.

Following are the specifications of the antiphonal organ:

Operated from Pedals: Echo Bourdon, 16 ft., 20 notes from Gedeckt.
Unison, Super and Sub-Couplers. Pistons coupling to swell and choir manuals.
Balanced swell pedal.
Tremulant.

Dr. O. A. Mansfield Resigns.

Dr. Orlando A. Mansfield, F. R. C. O., F. A. G. O., the well-known English concert organist, composer and author, after five years' successful work is resigning his position as professor of music in Wilson College. Great regret has been expressed by the general and musical public, local and otherwise, and by the college students and alumnae, as Dr. Mansfield not only raised the standard of music in the college to a high level, and largely increased the number of music students, but has been instrumental in securing the erection of a fine four-manual organ on which he has given over a score of recitals to audiences increasing in numbers and appreciation. Dr. Mansfield has formulated no plans for the future. He may accept another college or conservatory position, he may return to England, or he may decide to remain in Chambersburg devoting himself to composition and writing and, with Mrs. Mansfield, to occasional teaching.

Directed by Frederick Maxson.

The cantata, "The Triumph of the Cross," by Matthews, was sung by an augmented choir under the direction of Frederick Maxson on Good Friday afternoon at the First Baptist church, Seventeenth street, above Walnut, Philadelphia.

Represents California Company.

The California Organ Company of Van Nuys, Cal., is represented in Kansas City and surrounding territory by E. B. Kittleman. Mr. Kittleman has his office in the Grand Avenue Temple, where he also serves as assistant organist to Powell Weaver.

Sketches Theater Organist.

The handsome program of the Regent Theater at Detroit for Easter contained a picture and biographical sketch of Frederic Tristram Egner, the theater's organist. Mr. Egner was born at Hamilton, Ont. He has held a number of important church positions and was principal of the Woodstock Conservatory of Music for five years before going to the Regent. He was concert organist for the Marcus Loew Corporation, New York City, and has given over 100 recitals in the United States and Canada. Mr. Egner holds the University of Toronto senior honors certificate and is a member of the American Guild of Organists.

BONNET DISPELS THE GLOOM

Plays Second Excellent Recital in Chicago—Small House.

Joseph Bonnet gave a second recital in Chicago April 9, playing again on the great organ in Medinah Temple. The performance was as excellent as all of Mr. Bonnet's American recitals, which have been the feature of the season in the organ world. A depressing fact, however, was the smallness of the audience, which was emphasized by the great size of the Shriners' auditorium. Mr. Bonnet soon dispelled the gloom, however, by his remarkable work and made his hearers forget even the chilliness of the big room. The playing of the "Star Spangled Banner" at the opening and of "America" and the "Mars-cillaise" at the close was one more touch to endear Mr. Bonnet to his hearers.

The program opened with Guilman's D minor Sonata and included also the following: Prelude and Fugue in B major, Saint-Saens; "Chant de Chrysanthes," Bonnet; "Matin Provencal," Bonnet; "Sœur Monique," Couperin; Prelude, Clerambault; Fantasia and Fugue in G minor, Bach; "Piece Heroique," Cesar Franck; Cortège, Debussy.

Mrs. Rubee Wilson De Lamar, wife of the well-known organist, Eric De Lamar, interspersed the organ numbers with soprano solos.

Herbert E. Hyde brought Mr. Bonnet to Chicago for his second appearance and it is to be regretted that the response to his efforts on the part of the public was not greater.

The L. D. Morris Organ Company are always on the job.—Advertisement.

ATHLETICS FOR ORGAN MEN.

Hutchings Company Has Ball Team—Also Bowling and Tennis.

Waltham, Mass., April 5, 1917.—The Diapason, Chicago: In your last issue you have a report of the bowling match between the Austin and Hall Organ Company's bowling teams. In this report you speak of this match as probably the first time that two organ companies have ever met in athletic competition.

The Hutchings Organ Company of Waltham, Mass., through its manager, Charles A. Flaherty, has supported a baseball team for the last four seasons. This team has met in competition both the E. M. Skinner Company and the S. Pierce team in series of games every year since its formation. The three companies have really had a triangular league. The Hutchings Organ Company has also had a bowling team for four seasons and has met the Skinner and Pierce teams in bowling matches. Last year the Hutchings Organ Company built a tennis court for its employees and a tennis team was organized.

Mr. Widenor intends to continue his musical studies in New York City next fall under Gaston M. Dethier and Percy Goetschius at the New York Institute of Musical Art, and at the Trinity School of Church Music. Mr. Widenor has studied organ and theory with J. H. Simms of Omaha for the last six years and piano with Cecil W. Berryman, also of Omaha. He has held a number of church positions in Omaha. Mr. Widenor will take the associate examination of the A. G. O. this spring at Grinnell, Iowa, the nearest point to Omaha where examinations will be held. At his recital Mr. Widenor played Mendelssohn's Sixth Sonata, Air for the G string, Bach: the Fugue in G minor, Bach: "Elfenfantz," Johnson; "Christmas in Sicily," Yon; "Kol Nidrei," Bruch, and "Fanfare d'Orgue," Shelley.

William E. Zeuch of Chicago, who recently was appointed organist at the South Congregational church of Boston, is giving a series of organ recitals each Sunday.

A maximum supply of wind at all times, a minimum of noise in operation, the highest quality of material and workmanship in its construction, manufactured by a company that devotes its entire efforts to the production of an efficient and perfect Organ Blower are the features embodied in the OBECO.

Our specially constructed wind ways and blast wheels allow of no backing up of wind. Every cubic inch of air taken into the blast chambers, becomes a unit of power. The intake at top of blower insures clean, dry air and freedom from dust being blown through Organ.

"EXSULTEMUS," by Ralph Kinder.
 "INTERMEZZO," Les Sylphes," by Arthur Davis.
 "THE TRAILING ARBUTUS," by Arthur Davis.
 "A DESERT SONG," by Ernest H. Sheppard.
 "CANZONA," by J. Frank Frysinger.
 "GETHESEMANE," by J. Frank Frysinger.
 Published by J. Fischer & Bro., New York.

Several new numbers have recently been added to the already lengthy and valuable list of compositions for the organ by American composers published by Fischer & Bro. Ralph Kinder's "Exsultemus" is a fine exultant piece, written with vigor and dash and to be played accordingly; there is a middle section to provide contrast and the music is skillfully put together, making a piece that can be played on many occasions.

Arthur Davis contributes two interesting pieces, one a reverie, "Trailing Arbutus," in which the first melody, sung by the oboe, makes effective use of that form of syncopation known as the "Scotch snap," of which MacDowell was very fond. "Les Sylphes" is an "Air de Ballet" of the type so beloved by American publishers. So prevalent is this style that it may be said that Chaminade has exercised a more powerful influence on the American composer of organ music than any other writer (not excepting Johann Sebastian Bach). Mr. Davis is to be congratulated on the quality and development of his second themes, a point where many composers fall down.

There are also two pieces by J. Frank Frysinger, a "Canzona" in which there are several interesting and novel effects in rhythm, with a middle section in 5-4 time. In his "Gethsemane" his main theme is first presented with vox humana, harmonized in four parts, and later is embellished with fluidic counterpoint for the choir flutes and with a harp-like effect.

The oriental atmosphere in Ernest Sheppard's "Desert Song" is obtained by an oboe melody accompanied by a drum-like figure.

American organists, as well as American composers, should be grateful to J. Fischer & Bro. for their praiseworthy work along these lines in the excellent Fischer edition.

"NATIONAL ANTHEMS," arranged for the organ by Clarence Dickinson.

Published by the H. W. Gray Company, New York.

It was a splendid idea to publish at this time the national anthems of the allies, arranged for the organ. Organists no doubt will have occasion to use them during these coming months and it will be convenient to have them arranged for the organ and collected in easily available form. The nations represented are (in addition to the United States, with "The Star Spangled Banner") Great Britain, Russia, France, Belgium, Japan, Italy and Serbia. No effort has been made to make organ "pieces" out of the hymns; each one is presented simply without embellishment, for two manuals and pedals, with a few suggestions for registration.

"JUBILATE DEO" and "MEDITATION," by F. P. Leigh.

Published by William A. Pond & Co., New York.

The house of William A. Pond & Co. is one of the oldest publishing houses in this country and has made and been a part of American history. It has just published two pieces of interest to organists—a well-written "Jubilate" for chorus or quartet and an interesting "Meditation" for the organ, both written by F. P. Leigh.

CONCERT AT LAKE FOREST

Wilhelm Middelschulte at the Church of the Holy Spirit.

Wilhelm Middelschulte played a fine program at the Church of the Holy Spirit at Lake Forest Sunday evening, April 22, before an audience which was much greater than the edifice would hold. The other artists taking part were Miss Ruth Breyspraak, violinist; Miss Mary Auer, harpist; Miss Anna Burmeister, soprano, and Arthur Ranous, director at the Church of the Holy Spirit, baritone. Russell D. Hill, whose fame as an amateur organist and patron of the organ is nation-wide, arranged the concert. The program is subjoined:

Organ—Concerto No. 1, Handel.

Violin, Harp and Organ—Largo from "Xerxes," Handel.

Harp Solos—Spanish Air, Zabel; "Am Spring Brunnen," Tedeschi.

Baritone Solos—"Come, Thou Sweet Death," Bach; "A New Heaven and a New Earth" from "The Holy City," Gaul.

Organ (with violin and harp)—Chorale Prelude, "O Man, Lament Thy Sin So Great," Bach; Sonatina from the cantata, "God's Own Time Is the Best Time," Bach.

Soprano Solos (with harp and organ accompaniment)—"With Verdure Clad," from "The Creation," Haydn; Requiem, Schumann.

Violin Solo—Adagio, Vieuxtemps.

Violin, Harp and Organ—"Meditation," from "Thais," Massenet.

Organ—Prelude in B minor, Bach.

Henry A. Roebner, an organist of Easton, Pa., 63 years old, died April 11 of injuries received in being struck by an automobile. He was crossing a street, head bent and holding his hat, because of high winds, when he walked directly into the car, which was running slowly. Mr. Roebner had lived in Easton for forty years and was one of the first organists in the city.

H. H. Vogelpehl & Sons of New Ulm, Minn., have received an order for an organ from the Lutheran church of New Rome, Minn.

A radical departure from the accepted Canons of Organ building.

Opening a new, profitable and permanent field for organists.

In the Wurlitzer Hope-Jones Unit Orchestra, every dignity and magnitude of the church Pipe Organ is preserved; but through its flexibility of expression, and range of new tone colors available, it is meeting with great success in the secular field.

Installed in America's largest theatres and motion picture houses.

The Cumulative Success of M. P. MÖLLER ORGANS

grows naturally out of their inherent qualities. Their occurrence in large groups is even more substantial evidence than their wide distribution. The endorsement of the conservative institutions of the central section of Brooklyn is a curiously unanimous vote of approval. In the past few years the largest and leading churches of the following denominations have installed new Möller organs, or had their former instruments rebuilt by Möller. In chronological order these most important institutions have chosen Möller, within a radius of a mile:

Emmanuel Baptist Church
 Bedford Presbyterian Church
 Training School for Teachers (City of New York)
 Boys' High School Auditorium
 St. Luke's P. E. Church
 St. James' P. E. Church
 St. Joseph's R. C. Church
 Folly Theatre
 Clinton Avenue Congregational Church

More than two hundred Möller organs are in service in the metropolitan district of New York City.

We believe that the interests of the organ purchaser are best served by prices which afford the builder a reasonable profit; that unsound finances may consist not only in prices that are too low, but also prices too high. We cheerfully admit that our success has its roots in the sound policy of large cash purchases of standard materials in advantageous markets. This initial advantage puts us far from the fear of competitive prices and we have been enabled to concentrate on quality. The quantity of business comes naturally as a result.

HINTS FOR OTHER FEATURES.

"Arsene Lupin," a six-reel Vitagraph film with Earle Williams in the title role, is very easy to play, but exceptional in this regard, that it is the only film we have ever played that ended with an Agitato.

"The Fortunes of Fifi," a Famous Players film with Marguerite Clark, is more complicated. On Reel 1 "Pierrette" (acc.) by Finck and "Petite Bijouterie" by Bohm to open with; at T. A Nation's Idol (Napoleon) a strain of "Marseillaise" can be cleverly interwoven by the organist. Reel 2: "Rosemary" (acc.) by Elgar, Improvisation, and "Le Secret" (acc.) by Gautier. Reel 3: "Air de Ballet" (acc.) by Wachs and Selection "Madcap Princess" by Engländer. Reel 4: "Gavotte" (P) by Beaumaine. On T. Qu'est de troussseau. Selection, "Babette" (acc.) by Herbert. Reel 5: Continue preceding until T. The return. Intermezzo, "Nadia" (acc.) by Delibes until court scene; "Entr'acte, La Colombe" (O. S.) by Gounod to end.

"The Argyle Case," a Selznick film with Robert Warwick and Elaine Hammerstein, is a most fascinating detective mystery in seven reels. Opening with "Plainte d'Amour" (deathbed scene) by Tellier, "Supplication" (both O. S.) by Frysinger and "Daybreak" (O. S.) by Spinney on T. Dawn, we find Reels 2, 3, and 5 ordinary until in Reel 5 T. Wall Between. Here a long mysterioso is necessary, after which Drdl's famous "Souvenir" (P. or acc.) fits in well. On Reel 6 "At Evening" (O. S.) by Kinder and a long Agitato and Borowski's "Andante" from Second Organ Sonata, and on reel 7 Chaminade's "Autonne" (P) Herbert's "Yesterthoughts" (acc.) and a love song to close.

"A Man of Mystery," a five-reel Vitagraph production with E. H. Sothern and Charlotte Ives (Sothern's last picture, his third with this company) is an Italian drama. On Reel 1 we used "Baccacio's Villa," "Barchetta," and "Neighbor's Garden" from Nevin's Suite for Piano "In Tuscany." On Reel 2 "Italian Garden" by Lind and "Serenade Florentine" by Schneider. On T. A Cafe. Lyrica Godin's "Valse Septembre" brightens the play agreeably, and on Reel 3 selections from "Rigoletto" and "Traviata" by Verdi continue the Italian atmosphere. Reel 4, "Serenade" (O. S.) by Jores and "Evening Idyll" (O. S.) by Sellars. Reel 5, "Yesterlove" (acc.) by Borch, "Cantique d'Amour" (O. S.) by Wendt "La Melancolie" by Prume and Song: "Love is Best, Sweetheart" (from "Foxy Quiller") by Herbert.

"Whom the Gods Destroy," a five-reel Vitagraph film with Harry Morey, Alice Joyce and Marc MacDermott, is a modern Irish drama suggested by the fate of Sir Roger Casement. On Reel 1 "Emerald Isle" by Langey, using "Off to Philadelphia" on T. Roll of distant drums and continuing selection until T. Not now Leslie. "Think of Me" (P) by Hueter and "Cantabile" (O. S.) by Faulkes (Weekes). In Reel 3 occurs an Agitato (mob scene) and on Reel 5 Raff's "Cavatina" is useful. On T. His reward, song: "Somewhere a Voice is Calling" by Tate to the end.

The daily organ recitals at the Salt Lake City Tabernacle were resumed April 1 at 11 o'clock, with Professor J. J. McClellan, Edward P. Kimball and Tracy Y. Cannon as organists. According to Benjamin Y. Goddard, the hour of the recitals has been changed to better accommodate the railroad schedules, the noon hour conflicting with the departure of a number of trains.

John E. Byington, the Dixon, Ill., organ builder, has closed contracts for the construction of organs for the Methodist church at Mendota, Ill., and the Evangelical Lutheran church at Correctionville, Iowa.

LUNCHEON TO MEET BONNET Philip Berolzheimer Is Host—Distinguished Men Present.

Joseph Bonnet was honored with a luncheon given in his honor and to meet a company of men distinguished in the political and social world of New York City at the Waldorf-Astoria by Philip Berolzheimer, honorary member of the Alumni Association of the Guilford Organ School, early in April.

Dr. William C. Carl acted as toastmaster and spoke in the highest terms of the extraordinary success achieved in America by Mr. Bonnet during his successful tour of organ concerts, laying emphasis on the character of the programs and the influence his work had already exerted in the world of organ music. Mr. Bonnet responded in a happy speech and expressed his admiration for America and the American public.

Among the other speakers were Mr. Berolzheimer, Thomas Patten, postmaster of New York; Professor William R. Shepherd of Columbia University, and the Rev. Dr. Howard Duffield.

The luncheon was one of the most brilliant functions in Mr. Bonnet's honor and the table decorations were, without doubt, the most elaborate that have been seen in New York for several years.

Prominent among the guests were: Judge S. D. Cooper, Judge I. F. Fischer, L. A. Cowan, Dr. Howard Duffield, Warren W. Foster, Warren R. Hedden, Professor William R. Shepherd, Congressman D. J. Riordan, Clifford Seasingood, Thomas Patten, Dr. Edward Sternburger, Edward L. Steinhauer, Clement R. Gale, Emil Berolzheimer, George Veit, Frank Wolf, Alfred J. Johnson, and Dr. Henry Leipziger.

PLAYED IN NEW ZEALAND.

American composers are becoming appreciated more and more at home, unlike prophets, as brought to our readers' attention in the past, and equally their fame is spreading to the farthest corners of the earth. A gratifying illustration of this is found in a program from Auckland, New Zealand, where, by the way, The Diapason is read, to a recital in the town hall by the city organist, Maughan Barnett, on March 3, at which he played two of the newest pieces by our fellow Chicagoan, Charles Albert Stebbins. Mr. Stebbins' "Where Dusk Gathers Deep" and "Oh! The Lifting Springtime" were given the place of honor on the program and no doubt were appreciated, as they are by so many audiences in the United States.

PROSPERITY AMID WAR

After a long period in the shadow of war, with its horrors daily in everyone's mind, the storm has broken on this side of the ocean and we look forward to what a day or a month may bring forth. In addition to the suffering and distress incident to the world imbroglio we face the effects on material things and necessarily on art. Interviews with the best authorities on business would portend, however, that there is no likelihood of hard times in the United States unless the struggle should be prolonged far beyond general expectations. As for the organ profession, the builders never have been busier and contracts carry them far into the future. The determination and apparent system with which the administration is going ahead with every preparation is a most encouraging sign.

USEFUL MEN RETIRE

For many years the names of Dr. Charles W. Pearce and Dr. Charles Vincent have greeted the readers of the Organist and Choirmaster of London each month and as many times their charming literary style and their authoritative comment and advice on matters of the organ and the music of the church have enlightened and refreshed their host of admirers. It is therefore with regret that we read the editorial notice of their retirement. By those in America who have been readers of the Organist and Choirmaster and who have shared the sentiment of the organists of England for this paper, the loss of the personal touch of these two men, who have done so much in many ways for church music, outside of their twenty-four years' editorship, is no doubt keenly felt. It is therefore no surprise to see in the latest issue of the magazine a word acknowledging the large number of letters of tribute to them received since their retirement.

Francis Burgess is now the editor of the Organist and Choirmaster and we need only quote the following announcement by him to illustrate the exciting beginning he has been compelled to make:

"This month we have tried the experiment of editing the Organist and Choirmaster from a royal naval depot 'somewhere in England.' It has proved difficult, but not impossible, and although the conditions under which we write are not ideal for editorial purposes, they are, nevertheless, far from being as uncomfortable as might be the case in some other branches of the public service."

We hope Mr. Burgess will have the greatest success in war and be spared for a most distinguished editorial career in peace.

Harold Vincent Milligan leaves his impress in many places, but notably each month in his review column in The Diapason. But this month we place him before you on our front page. Those who do not already know him will see that while his judgments sometimes are possibly severe, his mind is not. Mr. Milligan is too well known as organist, teacher, composer and critic to require a long sketch to go with his picture. In all his activities he stands in the front rank.

MAJORITY FOR MODERN SWELL.

Trinity House, Watertown, N. Y., April 4, 1917.—My Dear Mr. Gruenstein: An editorial in a recent number of The Diapason referred to the conservatism of some organists in England, who prefer the old-fashioned lever swell pedal to the modern balanced pedal, which is in general use in this country.

Some correspondence which appeared in The Musical Times (London) during the last few months indicates that the opinion of the men referred to does not reflect that of a majority, or even of any considerable number, of English organists. In closing the discussion the editor of the Musical Times said: "Mr. H. C. Tonking is so fond of the lever that he would fain have two of them, one on each side of the console. If this custom becomes general our players of the left-foot-pedal-right-foot-pump will at least have an inducement to become 'ambipedestrian.' * * * Our own experience of many years' use of both systems leaves us firmly convinced of the all-round advantage of the balanced pedal."—(Musical Times, March, 1917.)

Yours very truly,
GERALD F. STEWART.

RUBBER HEELS AN ADVANTAGE.

Albany, N. Y., April 14, 1917.—Editor of The Diapason, Chicago, Ill.: Congratulations on the issue of The Diapason for April. It improves all the time. Keep it up.

On page 10 you print a letter from "C. P." in which he inquires as to the best type of shoe for the organist to use. I thought I would write you my opinion. I personally prefer an Oxford in an English last, with rubber soles and heels. The toe of this last is only moderately and gradually pointed and the swing at the outside is also moderate and gradual. The low (not too low) rubber heel and the easy rubber sole are a great advantage. I used to think that rubber would be sticky on the pedals, but experience proves that it is not. Its slight tendency to hold to the pedal surface is to me a decided advantage over leather, which I find often very slippery. Rubber presents a smooth, clean surface—no nails to scratch and mar the pedals and woodwork under the keys and the bench. I find also that a pair of two of "Dri-foot" or "Viscol" to the uppers helps to make the leather pliable and therefore to obviate mechanical interference with pedal technique in the way of shoe stiffness. A shoe to be really easy on the pedals must be worn several months to take away the newness and make it a responsive medium, not a stiff interference.

I shall be interested to hear from other organists on this point.

Very sincerely,
FREDERICK BOWEN HAILES.

CORRECTION BY MR. GIBSON.

South Norwalk, Conn., April 2, 1917.—Editor The Diapason. Dear Sir: Please permit me to correct an error in your April issue, I just received. It is true that the church where I have had musical charge for many years is to have a new and modern organ of Mr. Möller's make, to replace the Johnson which is to be retired after doing good service since June, 1867. With the exception of eleven years (nine in Waterbury, two in Danbury) I have played it all this time. But it is not in a South Norwalk church, but in the First Church of Norwalk that the new organ is to be located, and we are all duly happy at the prospect, particularly as I am using a piano, and shall have to do so until the installation of the new instrument.

On another subject: I am sorry to see that you quote, with apparent approval, the ill-natured remarks of "A Soprano" on the subject of preparations made or not made by organists for coming services. Touching on but one part of her letter, I will say that I have known, but one minister who knew before the middle of the week—to put it mildly—the subject of his next Sunday's sermons. Usually my choir knows, a week in advance, the music for the following Sunday, and I make it a point to let a year pass before repeating any anthem, unless something of special interest.

Yours truly,
ALEX. S. GIBSON.

The Organ and the Orchestra

By RALPH KINDER
(From the April Etude)

In these days when the organ is being used for purposes which a few years ago were entirely unheard of, and when organ builders in their development of "The King of Instruments" have brought about a state of perfection both in tonal effects and in mechanical completeness that causes both player and listener to hold their breath, the question can well be asked: "To what extent should the organist in his concert work imitate the orchestra?"

It is perfectly true that organ builders today have perfected actions and conveniences with such cleverness that a performer is able to accomplish results that are little short of wonderful, while the orchestral color is so significant in the up-to-date instruments we hear all about us that one naturally stops and wonders where the organ and orchestra meet and shake hands.

We hear many diverse opinions expressed on this point. Many of our most capable organists feel that the orchestra should be imitated most sparingly, if at all, in the playing of their chosen instrument, while many just as competent organists believe, since the organ is three-fourths orchestra in its tonal effects, that orchestral coloring should be liberally employed in their organ playing.

It is safe to assume that no performer believes that the orchestra should be in his mind when the diapason family is being used. But what of the reed, string and flute families? What has the builder, for instance, in mind when he voices any set of pipes belonging to these families? Take the wonderful organs in any of the municipal buildings which happily many of our large and leading cities possess, and recall the superb coloring of the reed, string and flute pipes. What is instantly recalled to the mind when one hears their individual tones? Is it not the orchestra?

If, however, we claim the organ as our favorite musical instrument, then should we claim the diapason family as our favorite organ tone. Nothing in our love for the organ should come between us and it. It is the tone which has caused the organ to be recognized, as a well-known clergyman has said, as "God's instrument," and should therefore be given first consideration in our treatment of the organ and organ effects. Furthermore, no program at an organ recital, whether given in church or auditorium, should be considered complete without at least one number in the interpretation of which the organ tone can be adequately employed, while in our playing of the church service the diapason tone should predominate in all that we do. But in treating the individual tones representing the reed, string and flute families our inspiration ought surely to come from the orchestra. Who of us after hearing the wonderful messages played by the violin, the flute, the oboe or the clarinet can fail to want to imitate them on our stops at the organ? Likewise the massive brass effects in the works of Wagner and Strauss?

Fortunately, especially in our musical centers, a splendid opportunity is now given to hear the best of orchestras playing the best of music upon the best of instruments, while the tours these bodies of musicians make from time to time afford organ students in smaller communities a most excellent chance of studying effects which can come only through hearing and observing.

A well-known American concert organist recently advised all composers for the organ to study the orchestra and orchestral effects as much as possible. He might well have included in his advice both organ students and recitalists, for with these significant advances in organ building there will come—if indeed they are not already here—wonderful opportunities and great demands upon player as well as composer. And when organists everywhere realize that four families of tone-color constitute the organ and that four distinct "touches," each to express the tone-color of the family it portrays, are necessary properly to interpret the great volumes of music, both old and new, written for the organ, then will the organ come into its own and the people be given the chance to know and to appreciate the wonderful resources of this most wonderful of all instruments.

Albert Riemenschneider, the Cleveland organist, who dedicated the new Hinners organ in the First Methodist church of Aurora, Ill., April 12, also gave a recital complimentary to the high school pupils and those of Jennings seminary.

PLAYS "QUEST OF ORPHEUS"

Mrs. Middelschulte Gives Gaul's Prize Work Before Musical Clubs.

Mrs. William Middelschulte of Chicago rendered a splendid program April 15, according to the Birmingham News, at the convention of the National Federation of Musical Clubs, in Birmingham. The most important work performed was the prize organ composition from the pen of Harvey B. Gaul, entitled "The Quest of Orpheus." The composition is modern in every respect, rhapsodical in character and indeed a notable addition to organ literature, writes the Birmingham critic.

The organ recital given at Temple Emanuel by Mrs. Middelschulte was, perhaps, the most dignified concert of the day. The splendid temple organ gave Mrs. Middelschulte ample opportunity to display her ability as a concert organist. She played the entire program from memory with the exception of the prize composition, which was read from the manuscript.

The complete program was as follows: Toccata, Grison; "Pilgrims' Chorus," Wagner; "In Paradise," Dubois; "Let There Be Light," Dubois; Andante from Concerto in A minor, Goldmark; "The Quest of Orpheus," Harvey B. Gaul; Chromatic Fantasia, Thiele.

Organ Supplemented at Recitals.

Organ, violoncello, violin and harp recitals are given every Sunday afternoon at St. James' Episcopal church, Atlantic City, N. J., under the direction of Dr. John H. Earnshaw, the organist. The choir assists. The programs are drawing large and appreciative audiences.

Wendell Q. O'Day, formerly of the Rialto theater at San Francisco, is now organist at the new instrument placed by the Wurlitzer Company in the Majestic at Boise, Idaho.

The choir of the church, with the organist and choirmaster, Uselma Clarke Smith, F. A. G. O., at the organ, gave a splendid rendition of the sacred cantata, "Via Crucis," by George A. A. West, dean of the chapter. In the accompaniments the organ was reinforced by harp and tympani. Despite the unfavorable weather, a good-sized audience was present. Organ solo numbers were played by Mr. West, organist and choirmaster of St. Luke's church, Germantown, and by E. Harold Geer, organist of Vassar College.

The next and final service for the season will be held on the evening of Ascension Day in Holy Trinity church, Rittenhouse Square, under direction of Ralph Kinder, organist and choirmaster of the church.

Western New York.

On April 12 Charles M. Courboin gave his second recital this season before the Western New York chap-

Mr. Courboin's offerings on this occasion were: Passacaglia, C minor, Bach; Aria for G string, Bach; "Rigaudon," Rameau; Chorale No. 3, A minor, Cesar Franck; Andante from Fourth Symphony, A flat, Widor; Pastorale from Second Symphony, Widor; Aria, Lotti; "Swedish Wedding March," Soedermann, and "Coronation March," Meyerbeer. Rochester papers spoke in the highest terms of his artistry and of the service in the cause of music performed by the local chapter in inviting him for a second recital. An informal dinner was given to Mr. Courboin and the members of the chapter under the direction of Dean Walter H. Carter preceding the recital.

A service under guild auspices was held March 25 at the United Presbyterian church of Rochester, of which W. J. Roys is organist. Mrs. Wallace I. Miller of the North Presbyterian church played Woodman's "Wedding Hymn" as the prelude. F. C. Lee of St. Paul's Episcopal played Hollins' "April Song" and Andante and Allegro by Bach. Lorimer Eshelman of the First Methodist church played the Pastorale in G by Faulkes and the Prayer from Boellmann's Gothic Suite. The postlude was Faulkes' Rhapsody on a Theme for Pentecost, played by Paul McCarty of SS. Peter and Paul church. The choir sang Mendelssohn's "I Waited for the Lord" and "Still, Still With Thee," by Arthur Foote.

West Tennessee.

The West Tennessee chapter met in the guild rooms April 5. The feature of the morning was a paper on "The Messiah," by John B. Norton.

A recital was given at Grace Episcopal church April 24 and the final meeting of the season will be held May 3 at the Hotel Chisca, followed by a luncheon.

TO GRADUATE LARGE CLASS

Guilmant School Commencement Will Be Held at Close of May.

Arrangements are being made at the Guilmant Organ School for the graduation exercises and completion of the school year at the end of May. The class of 1917 is the largest to graduate from this well-known and successful institution.

During the spring term a series of lectures on "Improvisation" is being given by Frederick W. Schlieder, the well-known organist. Dr. Howard Duffield will give his annual course on hymnology in May and Charles Schlette will instruct on organ tuning.

and repairing. The students in addition will have the opportunity of visiting the organ factory of J. H. & C. S. Odell & Co., and of having the art of organ building explained by Lewis C. Odell, a member of the faculty.

SUMMER SCHOOL OF MUSIC

Church Work Will Be Taught by Well-Known Men.

Arrangements are under way for the summer school of church music which will meet at Cambridge, Mass., this summer. It will extend over two weeks from June 22 to July 7, with headquarters at the Episcopal Theological School. The registration for the past two years shows that the school is meeting a long-felt want in this important department of church work. With an unusually strong faculty it has numbered among its members prominent church musicians from Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Chicago and the New England states.

A timely feature of the school this year will be a course in the history and music of the new hymnal authorized by the general convention in 1916. The course will be given by Richard G. Appel, M. A., organist and instructor in church music at the Cambridge Theological School. Dr. A. Madeley Richardson, late organist of Southwark Cathedral, London, will give a demonstration course in practical choir training, illustrated by a boy choir.

Certain subjects such as modern service music and anthems, including music of the Russian liturgy; organ music in relation to the church service; Sunday school music, etc., will be dealt with in special conferences. There will be a series of organ recitals and opportunities will be given to hear some of the notable organs in the vicinity of Boston and to visit organ factories.

A registration fee of $5 is charged to defray the expenses of the school and admits to all classes and privileges. Applications for registration and further information may be made to Richard G. Appel, director, 15 Hilliard street, Cambridge, Mass.

LIGHT SHOE; LOW HEEL.

Seattle, Wash., April 12, 1917. Editor of The Diapason. Dear sir: In the April issue of your valuable and interesting paper the question is raised as to type of shoe that should be used in organ playing. This is a fundamental question in technique that is too frequently overlooked. It has been my practice to insist that pupils shall wear light-weight shoes with low heels and preferably with non-pointed toes, without the usual stiff "box" toe. Many organists keep a special pair of shoes to be used only at the organ. This necessitates considerable inconvenience and personally I prefer to use light-weight low-heeled shoes at all seasons.

F. S. PALMER,
Organist St. James' Cathedral.

The Choir of Calvary church, Pittsburgh, under the direction of Harvey B. Gaul, sang the following cantatas at the Lenten musical services: Rheinberger's "Stabat Mater," with Liszt's "137th Psalm," Mendelssohn's "Hear My Prayer," Stainer's "Crucifixion," Dubois' "Seven Last Words," Harvey B. Gaul's "By Faith Alone" and Rossini's "Stabat Mater." The choir was accompanied at the different services by harp, violin, flute, string quartet and organ.

One-Hundred Mark Nearly Approached by N. A. O. Branch—
Meeting Held at Epiphany Parish House in Chicago.

The third regular monthly meeting of the Illinois Council, National Association of Organists, was held at Epiphany Parish House, 201 South Ashland boulevard, Chicago, on Sunday afternoon, April 15. The president, Dr. Francis Hemington, reported that he had appointed F. N. Morgan a vice-president for the city of Springfield, and Miss Edith Jackson corresponding secretary in Chicago.

During the last three months the Illinois Council has more than doubled in membership and is approaching the 100 mark, which it hopes to reach before this summer's convention.

At the conclusion of the business meeting William H. Shuey, who is well known as an authority on the organ, gave an interesting stereopticon lecture, "A Short Story of the Organ," from earliest times down to the present. Pictures of some of the most wonderful organs in the world were thrown on the screen, and the lecture proved very instructive and entertaining.

The fourth monthly meeting of the Illinois Council will be held on Sunday, May 20, and will be in the nature of an organ festival. Particulars will be announced later.

During the last month the following new members have been received: Arthur R. Fraser, Oak Park; Miss Edith Jackson, Chicago; Miss Martha Lathrop, Oak Park; the Rev. John Henry Hopkins, D. D., Chicago; Mrs. Jessie Sumwalt, Oak Park; F. N. Morgan, Springfield; Miss Carolyn Babcock, Chicago; H. J. Millman, Chicago; the Rev. H. W. Prince, Chicago; F. E. Morton, Chicago; Frank Van Dusen, Chicago; Fred E. Freers, Chicago; C. Oliver Johnson, Chicago; Miss Myrtle Nisbet, Chicago; F. Deane Harrobin, Chicago.

Mme. Amelita Galli-Curci will make her only concert appearance in Chicago this spring at the Evanston Festival, Tuesday night, May 29. On the same program will appear Mr. Martinelli, the great Italian tenor of the Metropolitan Opera, and with the entire Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra, Emil Oberholfer conducting, this evening promises to be the greatest event of these festivals.

FRANK S. ROGERS' JUBILEE

Albany Church Observes Organist's Twenty-fifth Anniversary.

The evensong service at St. Peter's church, Albany, N. Y., March 19, was devoted to a recognition of the twenty-fifth anniversary of Frank Sill Rogers, Mus. D., as organist and choir-master. Every seat was taken long before the service began and many late comers were turned away.

The regular choir of St. Peter's was reinforced by the full strength of the Mendelssohn club, of which Dr. Rogers is director. The program arranged by Dr. Rogers was as follows: Prelude to "Parsifal," Wagner; Processional Hymn, Thibaut; Magnificat in A flat, Mann; Motet for Men's Voices, Ford; Anthem, "The Vast Unnumbered Throngs," Grieg; Anthem from the Russian Liturgy, Rachmaninoff; Evening Hymn, Abt; Recessional Hymn, "St. Ann's," and Organ Postlude, Sonata in A minor, Borowski.

The Rev. Charles C. Harriman, rector of St. Peter's, spoke of the work of Dr. Rogers at the church and paid a high tribute to his ability and influence. The Rev. Walton W. Battershall, rector emeritus of St. Peter's, referred to his many years of association with Dr. Rogers during his active days of ministry and offered an eloquent tribute to the musician and the man, saying that it would be hard to measure between his influence over his men and boys as a music teacher and as a personal force for fine ideals. He declared that the parishioners felt an affection for the man and a sense of indebtedness for his musical record at the organ and the director's post.

PUBLIC ENJOYS GOOD MUSIC, SAYS LEMARE

IS BORED BY CHEAP WORKS.

San Francisco City Organist Makes Statement of What People Expect—Easy to Hold Attention With Organ.

Edwin H. Lemare, who has been appointed municipal organist of San Francisco at an annual salary of $10,000, has issued an interesting statement in which he makes it clear what kind of music he thinks the public generally has a right to expect. He says:

"Old and generally accepted beliefs that the ordinary human, through lack of education, is unable to grasp music of the highest order, and that none but the musically learned are able to appreciate good music are fallacies. The public is the final court of appeal as to what constitutes good music. If it says a composition is good, that composition is good.

"Good music is that which strikes the consciousness of an audience through its memory of melody. The greatest music, particularly organ compositions, is invariably the simplest form of tonal expression.

"The musician who pretends to be superior to pure melody, such as that found in the old folk songs, has forgotten the origin of his profession. He has become stilted, in a measure, and he might bore rather than entertain, although technically perfect in his interpretations.

"It is not hard to hold the attention of an audience with the organ, for the reason that the less one knows about the music of the organ, which is essentially emotional, the better it can be enjoyed. This would not be true of an orchestra, because the attitude of the audience before an orchestra of pretensions is unconsciously pedantic. Also, full appreciation of the wonderful possibilities of orchestral music depends in a large measure on technical knowledge.

"The organ has to give its own message and make its own appeal, and this is easily done if the performer understands the soul of the public, which is keen to take offense if any inferior article in the guise of 'great music' is offered. The way to appeal through the organ can, of course, be gained only through long experience. An organist's personality has much to do with his success, and unless he can entertain and give music worth while that is elevating and inspiring, his mission is a failure.

"It is an absolute fallacy to think that the 'man in the street' cannot understand and comprehend fully the difference between superior and inferior music.

"I never play 'down' to my audience, nor to the gallery, nor do I play so-called 'popular' and rag-time compositions. The public as a whole doesn't appreciate that class of music. It bores, and the organist who persists in playing it will lose the respect of his hearers."

JOHN DOANE

The A. B. Chase Company
Norwalk, Ohio.

Gentlemen:—

For the last four years I have used in my coaching studio, an A. B. Chase Grand piano. I wish to express myself as more than satisfied with the service that I have had from it. Its tone is brilliant and round; the action responds to the slightest gradation of tone color; and it stands the very hard usage to which it is subjected, most remarkably.

For six years, in the Oberlin Conservatory of Music, as student and teacher, I had the opportunity of watching the qualities of the A. B. Chase Upright, as they are used almost exclusively in that immense institution. Their wearing qualities are almost unbelievable. Under the grueling test of eight hours student practice six days a week, they remained in tune for a long period, and some that had been there for twenty years were the favorites of the students on account of the beautiful tone.

I can most heartily recommend them to anyone who desires the finest qualities to be found in a piano.

Very truly yours,

Have You Studied Harmony?

Harmony is the grammar of music, a knowledge of which will make you a better musician and more appreciative of the music you play, teach or hear. Harmony teaches you to analyze music, memorize more rapidly, transpose at sight, analyze melodies, detect wrong notes and faulty progressions, and to compose, arrange, or orchestrate in a musicianly manner.

Your musical education is not complete without a thorough and correct knowledge of Harmony. You can quickly overcome any deficiency and round out your education by taking our weekly lessons under America's eminent teachers, Adolph Rosenbecker and Daniel Protheroe, in the quiet and privacy of your own home at small cost. In these Master lessons you don't merely learn "cut and dried" rules without knowing how to apply them in a practical way, but ample original work with written examinations develops your knowledge and fixes the principles in your mind for future use. Read what eminent authorities say and realize that this is

Your Great Opportunity

Robert W. Stevens, Instructor at the University of Chicago, says: "I am pleased to use Protheroe's Harmony Lessons as material for our classes, both in the elementary ones in the Divinity School of the University of Chicago, and in my advanced grades. This work correctly done is well worth the credit."

Walter Damrosch, Director of the New York Symphony Orchestra, writes: "The lessons are admirably prepared and serve their purpose in every particular. I had no idea that such sound knowledge of music could be imparted in this novel fashion, and I beg to congratulate you and your pupils."

Valuable Art Catalog sent free, contains sample lessons, a musical dictionary and full details of these Harmony Lessons; also our courses in Piano (Students' or Teachers' Course with Paderewski's endorsement by the great Sherwood; Violin, Cornet, Mandolin, Guitar, Banjo, Public School Music, Choral Conducting, History, Advanced Composition, etc., by equally eminent teachers. Satisfaction guaranteed. Write today and learn of remarkable Scholarship Offer. It costs you nothing—you have everything to gain and nothing to lose. State age and course in which interested. ODELL ORGANS

¶ There may be other builders known as producers of high grade organs that use as excellent materials

—but we doubt that any give each instrument produced, no matter how large or small, the careful personal attention throughout that the Messrs. Odell devote to each instrument that is to bear their name.

The ability of every Odell Organ to serve with the utmost satisfaction the particular need it was designed to meet and to uphold the Odell name for quality and service is due to a large extent to this unusual interest and care exercised in its production.

"Consult the Church that uses one."
